A STATE CONVENTION We print in this paper two letters -one from East Tennessee and one from Giles county-in opposition to the holding of a State Convention We have printed other communications heretofore on the same side, and, so far as we recollect, no communication on the other side. We therefore secompany these articles with the explanation, that, so far as our correspondence is concerned, the weight of numbers is in favor of a convention. We have published all we have received against a convention, and have reserved the arguments in favor of one for use by ourselves when the necessity seemed to require it.

It is certainly true, that, with quite as much manimity as we have ever seen manifested on a similar occasion, our party desire and expect An-DREW JONES to be a candidate for re-election We hear no dissent, from any quarter. If the only use of conventions was to pick out candidates and settle conflicting aspirations, we might well dispense with one on this occasion. Our candidate has already been selected by the party, and we hear of no rival aspirations.

And yet, we have never, in all our political experience, known the time when we should have been as unwilling to dispense with a State Convention as now. The trick of the opposition, now so palpable, to break down the democratic party by a secret combination, imperatively demands an efficient organization; and we know of no way in which this trick can be so well aided as for our usual convention to be waived. The most persistent and constant efforts are making to coax democrats into these secret lodges; and the most careless ought not, therefore, to be permitted to forget that his party is an actual National and State organization. Perhaps we might make a little something of temporary advantage by imitating the devices of whiggery, but such advantage would be purchased at the cost of serious future disasters.

The fact that the whigs are not going to hold a convention, but will let Col. Gentry run as an independent know-nothing-temperance candidate, in the interest of the whig party, affects our opinion in regard to our own best course not a particle. We have always considered the tricks and frands and humbugs of whiggery as evil practices to be shunned, rather than as good examples to be imitated; and were never less disposed to follow those practices than now. It is true that whiggery makes no contest with us upon a single issue which divided the parties even two years ago. But it is assailing in secret the principle of religious and political freedom, and making war upon the fundamental principles of our Government. We wish to meet it by an open and organized effort, and to show our faith in democratic principles by a bold and frank defence of them.

We are expressing our own individual views, and shall be sorry to come in conflict with the opinions of any of our friends. But we have never been more fully convinced of the propriety of a satisfied, we owe it as a duty to our party to exshall be a "permanent institution," or we can have if for nothing else, to keep up our organization. This organization-"this old house-in the langnage of the Macon (Ga.,) Telegraph-is something more than a mere mass of brick and mortar, and we owe it to the past to take care of it. It is like a homestond, and every nook and cranny of it is a society in this County. We are sure that no full of sacred memories. It has come down to us | county in Tennessee is better able to succeed in from former generations. In foul weather, it has sheltered us from the storm, and in fair weather it List been made vocal with many a merry-making, start with all or nearly all of the other counties. seut old walls have received many a cannon Lors the enemy, and the time was, and we long to the Democratic household, and, if every sic of our ald comrades leave us, we shall lodge there to the end, and be cook, bottle-washer, and handlerd, all in one. We would not exchange the old place as it stands, for any of the fancy specimens of anchorecture which are going up around us, and even if it should fall down, rather than take rooms in any of the new-fangled Whig and Know Nothing taverus, we shall build a shanty of some of the sound plank remaining, and pace the Democratic platterns, solitary and alone."

PULASKI, Jan. 10, 1855.

To the Littlers of the Union and American: The committee of parties in Tennessee at this time, in my judgment, renders the propriety of calling a State Convention, at least until we see problimatical. I) there was any question of public interest upon which our party was not fully committed, or if there was any doubt as to the person to be salected as our candidate for Governor, there would be no doubt as to the course to be persued. But the necessity of a convention does not arise from either cause. Ancient democratic land marks stand out in bold relief commanding homage and admiration even from our opponents. No new question (except the Nebraska bill, which is settled, and there is but one opinion, and that is it should remain settled as it is, in the State on the subject, either amongst whigs or democrats) of federal or State policy agitates the public mind,-Andrew Johnson is the choice of nine-tenths of the democracy of the State for re-election, and even willing to give him a second term,

Why then should we have a Convention at all? It may be answered, because it is a time-honored custom, the abandonment of which at this time would be an abandonment, virtually, of our party organization, and be the signal for a similar course in all lecal elections. That it is a time-honored custom I admit, but it was originally resorted to as | bers while in session are also required by their a matter of necessity. We have been required oath to have an eye to the Constitution of the Unifrom time to time, as new questions would arise in the policy of the country, as a political party to express our views in such a way as to bind the party. Conventions were the most practical and convenient mode of doing this. We have had different persons aspiring to the same office equally 29 votes, they were declared duly elected. worthy and distinguished. Conventions were called to settle their conflicting claims. But when | the House. no necessity arises from either of these causes for a convention, should we have one? Not to call a Convention in this particular instance instead of be- $200, -- Won in three heats by Thomas G. Moore's ing an abandonment of our organization, would be br. m. Maid of Orleans. Time, 3:452; 3:47; 3:462; ing pervading the entire party. But the different W. W. Boyden's s. c. Henry, counties, Senatorial and Congressional districts in Thos. Puryear's ch. c. Charley Ball, the State would follow this example. Not unless J. Clarke's b. c. Black Prince, they are similarly situated. I repeat, then, the question, why should a Convention be called?

Let the democratic journals of the State place the disease of the grape, will probably not occasion; in name of ANDREW JOHNSON at their head, un- this country, an appreciable scarcity of wme. papers of the State in reference to a State Convention. So far as I have been and understood public openion, I think a convention entirely unnecessary and a nucless waste of time and money. There always been an advocate for conventions when there was any condict of interest to settle, but in the present contest sublic aplaien all over the State seems united in support of East Ten-nessee's favorite son, and distinguished orator and statesman, Andrew Johnson, the man who has aiways stood square up to his friends and democratic measures. The democracy of East Tennessee themselves under lasting obligations to the freemen of the other two grand divisions of the State (Middle Tennessee and Western District.) for the triumphant vote they gave Jonnson, in the last race, over the gallant HERRY, who I vetily believe polled a larger vote than any other member of his party could have done. East Tennessee is desirous of you to present the claims of Col. Jonsson, feeling a proud consciousness, that in his hands all interests are safe. I know of no man in the State, whig or democrat, who has so strong a held upon the affections of the great mass of the people, as Andrew Johnson. The truth is Johnson is one of the people, he knows their wants, and is able to contend for their rights. I have known him long, and it affords me pleasure to bear testimony to his unbending firmness and honesty, and what he promises he is sure to do; a knowledge of this fact has given him an influence where he is known that cannot be resisted. I would, therefore, very respectfully submit to our friends, in view of public opinion as indicated all over the State, that we dispense with a convention, and let every democratic paper in the State, at once unfurl their flag with Jonsson and victory and march up to the contest, then all will be right. I am not often mistaken in my views of elections. Let the whig party bring out their man, and let Governor JOHNSON gallant him through the State, from Johnson county to Shelby, with his manly appeals to the freemen of the State, and he will carry the State by thousands. The whigs in my humble judgment cannot start a man who will make as good a run as the noble old HENRY. EAST TENNESSEE

Hogs.-The Lousville Journal of Thursday says. There is nothing whatever doing in the market. At Cincinnati the receipts for the season up to Tuesday were 311,870 head against 362,791 head for the same time last year, and the receipts from this time last season to the close were 30,131 head. The total receipts last season according to the weekly reports of the Price Current were 402,982, while the numcinnati Gazette has the following: The hog market is much depressed. The stagna tion in the provision market, and the unremunera tive prices that everywhere prevail, together with the absence, of a certainty, of a very short crop, combine to produce this feeling. The receipts at this port have materially increased, as compared with the previous week, and it is not likely that the business will be would up before the 1st of February. From Lafayette we learn that there is an excess in the packing of IS,000a20,000 head. We are inclined to think that the falling off throughout the West will be much larger than the Gazette thinks. There is certainly a large deficiency at all the principal packing points. At the minor points some show a small increase, but by far the most of them show a very large decrease. The advices from New York are unfavorable. The Journal of Commerce of Saturday, says: There has been an extraordinary collapse in the certain line of policy than of this; and, being thus price of mess, the decline to-day being fully 62 to per barrel, and the extraordinary spectacle is prenress our views. We believe that, to dispense with latter generally considered worth about $1 50 less our organization once, is to imperil it in all time to than the former. Nearly all the pork has been come. We must insist that a State Convention | made into mess and prime mess, or worked as refused into lard, and there is scarcely any prime offering. The sales to-day are 5,700 barrels, includnone at all; because there probably never will be | ing 3,200 bbls mess at $11 874a$12 374, closing a time when the entire party will agree as to its at the inside rate, and $12 for prime, and includes "necessity." We regard one as necessary now, also 1,700 prime mess at $14a$15 55, the lower rate for uninspected country, and $13 50 for old clear. New pork may be quoted at $14 for mess and $13 for prime.

AGRICULTURAL BUREAU.-We had hoped before this time that some of our enterprising farmers would have taken the matter in hand and started every branch than Lincoln, and at no time can a better opportunity offer than is now presented. Commencing the present year we can have an even and only by us but by those who went before us. We have enterprise enough, skillful agriculturists enough, soil, climate, everything in fact, that any other county has and much more than nine tenths of them-then why cannot we compete and excel me the time will come again, when in the whole them in every branch of industry? We can asparrisan not a single traitor could be found. We sure our farmers, that there is no humbug in this thiny. It has been shown repeatedly that every dime laid out properly can be converted into a dollar in one half the time that it now requires and at a great deal less amount of labor.

We would suggest that a meeting be held on the first Monday in April next, and that the necessary steps be taken to secure a charter. In the meantime our columns are open to communications on the subject.-Lincoln Journal.

AGRICULTURAL BUREAU. - The State Agricultural Bureau met at Nashville on Wednesday, They appointed a committee to ascertain if any defects exist in the law establishing the bureau. They resolved to hold biennial fairs at Nashville in conjunction with the Davidson County Society. A resolution was also introduced by Dr. Gornos, of Smith county, that Governor Jourson be requested to address the people in different counties, so far as his public duties will permit on agricultural topics, and that Hon. J. C. Jones and Hon. John what our whig friends intend doing, extremely | Bent be requested to make appointments to address the people on their return from Washington next spring. In addition that ten or more gentlemen be appointed to make addresses in the counties convenient to them. The resolutions were adopted, We hail with delight these movements so anspiclous to the great agricultural interests of the State. - Murfreesboro' Telegraph.

COMMERCIAL. WEEKLY REVIEW OF THE MARKET.

UNION & AMERICAN OFFICE, Nametern, Jan. 14, '55.25 M. We are pleased to be able to chronicle a continued and increasing setivity in trade-since our last weekly review of the market. The river has continued steadity rising, until there is now an abunidance of water for all purposes of narigation, and the largest boats in the trade have been at our where. This state of things has had a happy effect upon business matters, and business men, and the long faces which a few weeks since, were as thick as blackberries in eason, are now materially abbreviated.

COTTON.-The opening of navigation having afforded an outlet for the large stock which had accumulated in our warehouses, the trade has visibly improved since our last, and prices have slightly advanced. The sales of the week have averaged about 100 bales per day at prices ranging from 51/4 to 61/4-a clear advance of 1/4c since last week. The receipts during the week past have also been larger than usual, amounting to over 1,000 bales, which evinces a disposition, on the part of the planter to send his crop forward. The total receipts at this port since the 1st September, amount to within a fraction of 10,000 bales, which added to the amount in store at the commencement of the season, amounts to ever 13,000 bales, of which about 3,000 have been shipped, leaving 10,000 on hand. CANDLES .- We notice that the stock of Candles in the narket has been increased, and Star are now quoted at 28a COAL.—The timely receipt of a boat load of Coal from the "Bell Mines," on the Ohio river, brought prices down to 25a80c, at which they still remain, and beyond which they will scarcely advance soon. FEATHERS.-The demand is good for shipment, prices ranging from 30 to 35. FLOUR.-Stock scarce, and prices stiff-Tennessee brands being the only varieties on sale. We quote $8 60a 8 50 as the wholesaling price, and $9 00 as the retailing. MOLASSES.-The recent arrivals from New Orleans have improved the stocks materially, and prices have re ceded. We quote N. O. at 23a25.

have recently dropped a figure, as will be seen by our quotations. There is ample stock for the demand. OHS are in full stock, and prices continue stiff. We quote Lard at $1 00al 10; Linseed, 1 10al 20; though we understand some are offering it at 95al 00 for cash. PAINTS.-There has been a recent arrival of White Lead, which was before very scarce, and the price has receded to $2 50. In other articles under this head we no tice no change. SALT .- Sack Salt is in ample supply at reduced prices. We quote Liverpool fine at $2 00a2 50, and Coarse at 2 00. W. H. Gordon & Co. sold over 2,000 sacks last week on the wharf at $1 80, which was said to be somewhat damaged. SEEDS.-Clover Seed has receded to $8 00, with still a light supply. Timothy is worth $8 75a4 00, and firm; and Millet, $4 00. In other varieties we hear of no fluctu-SHOT.—The stock of Shot has improved, and prices are in favor of the purchaser. We quote Buck at $2 50, and other sizes at $2 25.

SUGAR .- The receipts during the past week have been quite free, and there is now a full stock of all the various grades. Prices are without material change. WHISKEY has declined amazingly since our last, owing to the large accessions to the stock, and it is now down as low as it can be bought from first hands, adding ex-BACON,-Though there is a good demand for Hams at Salos, there are but little coming in, and the market is inactive. Shoulders are quoted at 6, and Sides 65/47.

MEAL has advanced slightly, and is now firm at 90a $1 00 at retail. BUTTER comes in freely, and is taken by dealers readily at 15a18, according to quality. EGGS are selling freely at 18c at wholesale, with an upward tendency WOOL has declined slightly, and is new going off at 20

GINSENG is in demand at 20a22c for shipment. RETAIL MARKET

Our retail market is poorly supplied, and prices are high We quote-Chickens dressed 20c; Turkeys 50cat 00; Potatoes, Irish, per peck 50c, and scarce; Apples 50a50c per neck, and scarce: Hommony per quart 10e: Squirrels and Rabbits life. The above articles constitute nearly every thing that is quotable. There are other things of country preduce to be had, but we can fix no price upon them.
